Susan M. Gibbons is a fine artist who resides and works in the Denver Metro area. Her work has been exhibited in solo and group exhibitions throughout Denver and Aurora but has exhibited nationally as well. Susan's work has been included in publications such as Surface, Fusion IV, Christianity and the Arts, Mars Hill Review, and First Fruits – A Compilation of Art.

Susan works with a variety of media including encaustic (pigmented bee's wax), acrylic, graphite, and ink. Her inspiration for her own work comes from the Abstract Expressionists, times of quiet contemplation and prayer, poetry, and the world around her.

She holds a Masters of Fine Art from Azusa Pacific University and a Bachelors of Fine Art from Colorado State University. Susan has taught as an adjunct instructor at the Community Colleges of Aurora and Denver, Colorado Free University, as well as various art classes to children and adults.

This beginning class will cover:

- Painting from the still life
- Color theory
- Glazing and wash techniques
- Impasto techniques
- Brush and palette knife techniques
- The effects of light

Supply list will be given with registration.
